This issue is dedicated to our Food Bank volunteers and the community, who are stepping up and giving their all during these uncertain times. Thank you!

Sky Valley Food Bank continues to serve families in need during this COVID-19 pandemic. In this issue, we will show you how the Food Bank has been impacted during this crisis, and the measures we have taken to keep ourselves and our community safe by providing porch deliveries to everyone who needs food. During this crisis, we have seen an increase of new customers and a decrease in volunteers, so your donations are needed now more than ever.
Our porch deliveries have had us busy stocking shelves multiple times a day for our box assembly line. It is a lot of heavy lifting, unpacking, and organizing. We have had our friends from the Key Club these last couple of weeks, and our fearless Director's family is here every Sunday gearing us up for the week ahead. Thanks to all of you!

We have been practicing our social distancing by keeping each other 6 feet apart. In our distribution area we assemble each box, making sure it’s filled with non-perishable food, and toilet paper if we can find any!

Our emergency boxes are stuffed with non-perishables, but also include some nutritious, fresh food as well. Bags of apples, oranges, carrots, cabbage, etc., make up our produce bags. And we are also adding milk and fresh eggs. Topping it all off, we include two different varieties of frozen meat. Our team of volunteers are putting in a lot of extra work and hours.

Becky has managed our porch delivery and our pickup lists. She has spent many hours, diligently constructing over 35 routes for over 200 stops. She makes notes for the volunteer drivers for easy delivery. She is doing incredible work!

Like we’ve mentioned before, volunteers are working extra hard lately. But we all still like to have fun, even during these scary times. Bob was making us laugh by showing us we’re making him do too much “back breaking” work!

Saffrel is once again working in the backroom. She and her husband, Chris, worked their magic the first week of all the changes, pre-packing over 500 bags that go out to our schools and community partners. They are amazing and loved by all.
Next month, many non-profits will be campaigning for GiveBIG 2020. Right here, right now, our community has already been giving big! They have been delivering food to customers’ porches, bringing food for our shelves, donating masks and gloves, and even lending us their building. Our motto has always been “Neighbors Helping Neighbors” and this is exactly what you’ve been doing! The support of the Sky Valley community these last few weeks has been tremendous. What we thought was impossible was made possible by your huge hearts and generosity. But, we aren’t done yet! Please help us by donating during GiveBIG on May 5-6. You can find us on the GiveBig website: www.givebigwa.org, or on our website: www.svfoodbank.org, or by mail using the info on the other side of this page.

We would love your support to keep feeding everyone who needs help during this crisis.
